

WE ARE RED

"No one has been able to explain the common thread between the Diablos Rojos del México and their passionate fans, but it's worth a try.

Countless of extraordinary players have passed through during the club's first fifteen years, yet the first championship never came. Nevertheless, the fans never lost faith; they were there, multiplying by the thousands.

Many individuals have contributed their talent and passion to making this club one of the most traditional: players, managers, support staff—men and women whose sole mission is to uphold the legacy of the top team. The new era of the Reds understands this commitment and embraces the challenge of adding indelible chapters to this beautiful story."

"Being a Devil is a kind of charm, to the point that one could argue the common thread between the Reds and their passionate fans lies in the absolute silence that envelops the stadium when the pitcher prepares to deliver a crucial strikeout, or in the thunderous echo that follows when the ball clears the wall.

In any case, the blood boils at the same temperature for those on the field, in the stands, or watching from miles away. This shared passion makes us unique—truly Diablos."
